Multidisciplinary Rapid Access Diagnostic Clinic (MRADC)

Why have I been referred to the Multidisciplinary Rapid Access Diagnostic Clinic (MRADC)?

Your GP has referred you to the MRADC at the Royal London Hospital for further investigation of your vague but concerning symptoms that could indicate cancer. The clinic provides quick access to a range of diagnostic tests for patients whose symptoms are a cause for concern with the aim of getting a diagnosis so that a treatment plan can be put in place.

What will happen at the clinic?

You will be seen by an Advanced Nurse Practitioner or a Doctor who will ask you some questions about your symptoms and your medical history. You may have a variety of tests, including blood tests, x-rays, scans (ultrasound, CT, or MRI) or camera tests (gastroscopy / colonoscopy). We will explain all the tests to you if they are required.

You should be available for all tests offered and may be contacted at short notice to attend appointments.

How long will I be there?

Appointments are carried out by telephone or face-to-face. Consultations usually vary between 45 minutes to 1 hour depending on how long the clinician requires to carry out your appointment.

For face-to-face appointments, please be prepared to be in clinic for 2 to 4 hours, as some tests may be carried out on the day.

Can I bring someone with me?

With your consent you can choose to have additional person on the call or if your appointment is face-to-face, you can bring one family member or friend to the clinic.

When will I get my appointment?

The Central Appointments team will contact you by phone within 48 hours of your GP referral to arrange the first clinic appointment. This appointment should be within 7 to 14 days from receipt of your referral to the hospital. Should you require any further assistance, please contact the MRADC administrative team directly on the contact number provided 07715 805 112.

Can I be offered a video appointment instead?

Yes, the MRADC team can facilitate video appointments if you would prefer this to a telephone appointment. However, face-to-face appointments may be necessary for the clinician to assess you appropriately.

When will I get my results?

We will either see you again in a follow-up clinic or give you a telephone call to explain the results and a plan if necessary. This may include onward referral to a more appropriate service dependent on results. You and your GP will also receive a letter explaining any findings.

Please bring a list of all the medications that you are currently taking with you, and any medical letters or reports about any care or treatment you have been receiving in other hospitals.
